DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Applicant's arguments filed 04/21/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000.

Art Unit: 3636

Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Benoit et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,007,153).

Benoit et al teach the structure as claimed (See Figures 1-7 and specification).

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ganot et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,095,608).

Ganot et al teach the structure as claimed (See Figures 1-12 and specification).

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ganot et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,164,723).

Ganot et al teach the structure as claimed (See Figures 1-3 and specification).

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rohee et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,402,249 B1).

Rohee et al teach the structure as claimed (See Figure 3 and specification).

Remarks

Applicant argues that Rohee et al, Benoit et al, Ganot et al, and Ganot do not disclose a locking member that "moves along an axis of displacement that is parallel to and offset relative to a radial direction that intersects the pivot axis." However, the above references are identical in structure to the present invention, and is evident by the drawings of the above references. Yet Applicant does not point out or define any structure, specifically in claim 1, how or what structure allows the locking member to "move along an axis of displacement that is parallel to and offset relative to a radial direction that intersects the pivot axis." The claims cannot be allowed simply because Applicant or Applicant's representative says the locking member functions as stated in Claim 1. There has to be some structure in the claims that supports or allows that function to occur. If the above references are identical in structure to the present invention, why is it that Applicant's Representative asserts that the present invention is different from the above references? Applicant needs to point out the structural differences and define those structural differences, i.e. add that structure to the claims with support for those structural differences or structural limitations being present in the specification to support those limitations.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 3636

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Rohee et al, Kopjima et al, and Reubeuze et al teach reclining mechanisms similar to the present invention.
